About Discovery Group:

The Discovery Group was founded by Jonathan Wilkinson, a British native, who intends to define the city living concept in the Czech market. The group has recently acquired a site to build a subsequent project of 1,200 units in the suburb of Zizkov and expect to have a number of other projects completed over the next few years. The company is well known for its successful retail and business centers throughout the Czech Republic and have built a solid reputation in the industry for their astuteness.

The residential arm will be focused on building residences which stand out from other large scale developments by focusing a great deal of attention on the detailed needs of the growing market of young professionals. The Discovery Group intends to be involved in each project from the building design process right through to the construction and hand-over in a bid to exceed the expectations of both owners and investors.

Through its projects, Discovery group supports activities of non-profit and charity organizations.
